The Commitment Process

Your Lawyer's
Responsibilities To You

Disability Rights

Established in 1977

YOUR LAWYER'S RESPONSIBILITIES TO YOU

All Idaho lawyers must follow the Idaho Rules of Professional Conduct

Some of these rules may have been important during your commitment proceeding

RULE

A lawyer shall provide competent representation to a client.

What does this mean?

Your lawyer is required to have the skills, knowledge and legal ability to represent you AND must be prepared to represent you.

RULE

A lawyer shall abide by a client's decisions concerning the objectives of representation.

What does this mean?

Your lawyer should listen to what you want to have happen at your hearing. To the best of his ability, he should follow your wishes on the outcome you want.

RULE

A lawyer shall explain a matter to the extent reasonably necessary to permit the client to make informed decisions regarding the representation.

What does this mean?

Your lawyer should take time to talk to you about what you want at your hearing. Your lawyer should explain your choices. Your lawyer should help you understand the results of your choices.

Violations of the Idaho Rules of Professional Conduct by a lawyer can result in disciplinary action.

If you have any questions or concerns contact:

Idaho State Bar
Office of Bar Counsel
P.O. Box 895
Boise, ID 83701
208-334-4500

RULE

When a client's capacity to make adequately considered decisions in connection with a representation is diminished, whether because of mental impairment or for some other reason, the lawyer shall, as far as reasonably possible, maintain a normal client-lawyer relationship with the client.

What does this mean?

Even if you have difficulty understanding for any reason, your lawyer still needs to meet with you and try to work with you.

Your lawyer should respect you by treating you the same as she would anyone else.
